A Message from the Premier of Saskatchewan

On behalf of the Province of Saskatchewan, I am proud to support the delegation representing Saskatchewan's film industry. Our province welcomes the opportunity to once again partner with members of the Los Angeles film community.

Saskatchewan is blessed with many advantages, creating many opportunities for investors. Our expertise and innovation, sense of community and unique landscape all add up to the Saskatchewan Advantage.

Saskatchewan's film industry has experienced incredible growth in the past twenty-five years, evidenced by the expanding body of work emerging from our province's vibrant production scene. A state of the art production facility found in the Canada-Saskatchewan Production Studios, coupled with the beautiful and diverse landscape of our region has positioned Saskatchewan as an ideal location for film and television production and post-production.

The highly-skilled pool of industry professionals in our province are recognized for their talent and dedication to their craft. Our experienced crews are the recipients of numerous accolades for the exceptional high standard of quality found in our productions. With experience producing critically acclaimed and award winning projects of all sizes, Saskatchewan's co-production partners have successfully teamed up with producers and studios across North America and around the world, demonstrating their commitment to success.

Saskatchewan's film and television industry is a vital component of our province's growing economy and, as such, boasts globally competitive tax credit incentives through the Saskatchewan Film Employment Tax Credit program. A strong and thriving business environment is yet another important part of Saskatchewan's story.

As we continue to build on this current momentum and advance the growth of our vibrant film and television industry, I invite you to invest in our province and realize the Saskatchewan Advantage.
